Israeli strikes kill 37 in Lebanon, Joe Biden rules out 'all-out war' in Mideast

World At least thirty seven people were killed, and over 150 were wounded in Israeli strikes on Lebanon in the past 24 hours, in what is considered one of the most violent raids since Israel intensified its campaign against the Iran-backed terror outfit Hezbollah. Dahiye, the area that houses Hezbollah's headquarters south of Beirut, was pummelled by Israeli bombs in an attack larger than the strike that killed Hezbollah chief Hassan Nasrallah a week ago. Some of Thursday night's strikes hit close to Beirut's international airport. The strikes in Beirut reportedly targeted Hashem Safieddine, Hezbollah's likely new chief, while he was in a discussion with other officials in an underground bunker, according to reports. His fate is currently unknown.US President Joe Biden said he did not believe there was going to be an "all-out war" in the Middle East. He added that more needes be done to avoid a Middle East war. "How confident are you it's not going to rain? Look, I don't believe there is going to be an all-out war. I think we can avoid it," he said.An Israeli strike in Beirut on Thursday targeted top Hezbollah official Hashem Safieddine, who is widely regarded as the successor to slain Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah. Neither Israel nor Hezbollah has commented on the development, but Israel's Channel 13 reported that Israeli army sources believe the operation was successful

Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei is set to lead Friday prayers and deliver a public sermon today. This sermon, the first in almost five years, assumes significance considering the volatile situation following the killing of Hezbollah chief Hassan Nasrallah and comes just three days before the one-year anniversary of the Israel-Hamas war in Gaza.

Series of loud explosions heard near Beirut airport: Report

Beirut. Huge explosions shook the sky in the vicinity of Beirut's main airport in the early hours of Friday (October 4), minutes after the landing of an aircraft. Data from the Flightradar 24 website showed the flight to be Middle East airlines ME429 from Dubai. Live video from Reuters showed the sky lighting up with several loud bangs heard. Minutes earlier, an aircraft inbound from Dubai could be seen making its final approach and landing.

The explosions did not appear to be within the confines of the airport, but were visible from Sin El Fil, 6.8 kilometres northwest of the airport

30 years ago, Nobel Prize crowned hopes of Mideast peace

Oslo, Norway. Of all Nobel Peace Prizes, the one awarded 30 years ago to the Israeli-Palestinian peace process is among the most controversial, featuring a laureate branded a terrorist, a jury member's resignation and a bloodbath. On October 14, 1994, a year after the signing of the Oslo Accords, the Peace Prize was awarded to Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestinian Liberation Organisation; Yitzhak Rabin, the Israeli prime minister; and his foreign minister Shimon Peres.

The Nobel committee hailed "their efforts to create peace in the Middle East", after a negotiated solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict appeared finally within reach conflict appeared finally within reach.

"By concluding the Oslo Accords, and subsequently following them up, Arafat, Peres and Rabin have made substantial contributions to a historic process through which peace and cooperation can replace war and hate," the committee said at the time.

That hope proved fleeting. Over the following three decades, weapons continued to be fired across the Middle East, killing tens of thousands, and the region now risks descending into full-scale war as fighting rages between Israel and the Islamist movements Hamas and Hezbollah, backed by Iran. As soon as the 1994 prize was announced, protests erupted, with the choice of laureates -- especially Arafat -- harshly criticised.

An hour after the announcement, one of the five members of the Nobel committee, Kare Kristiansen, co-founder of the Norwegian parliament's Friends of Israel group, tendered his resignation."Arafat's past is too tainted with violence, terrorism and bloodshed" to be worthy of a Nobel Prize, said the former Christian Democratic MP, who years later demanded an "apology" from the Nobel committee. As head of the PLO, Arafat, who died in 2004, personified the Palestinian resistance to Israel's occupation, ordering indiscriminate attacks even though he publicly distanced himself from terrorism.

The day of the prize's announcement, Rabin was hunkered down in his office dealing with a crisis sparked by Hamas's seizure of an Israeli soldier as hostage. That evening, the Israeli army raided a house in the occupied West Bank. The officer leading the raid was killed, as were three Hamas militants. The hostage was found dead."I would have preferred to have the two (Israeli) men alive and not to have the Nobel Peace Prize," Rabin said later.

Hurricane Helene becomes deadliest to hit US mainland since 2005 as 215 die

World Rescue crews and volunteers facing obstacles at every turn in North Carolina's remote mountains paddled canoes across swollen rivers and steered horses past mudslides in the rush to reach those stranded or missing by Hurricane Helene's rampage that killed more than 200 throughout the Southeast.Now a week since the storm first roared onto Florida's Gulf Coast, the search continued for people who have yet to be heard from in places where phone service and electricity were knocked out. Pleas for help came from people running low on medicine or in need of fuel for their generators. How many people are missing or unaccounted for isn't clear. The death toll soared to 215 people on Thursday as more victims were found, making Helene the deadliest hurricane to hit the mainland US since Katrina in 2005. Roughly half the victims were in North Carolina, while dozens more were killed in South Carolina and Georgia. Each road presents a new challenge for rescuersAlong the Cane River in western North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains, rescuers from the Pensacola Volunteer Fire Department were cutting their way through trees at the top of a valley nearly a week after a wall of chocolate-milk colored water swept through for hours.Pensacola, which sits a few miles from Mount Mitchell, the highest point east of the Mississippi River, lost an untold number of people, said Mark Harrison, chief medical officer for the department."We're starting to do recovery," he said on Thursday. "We've got the most critical people out."Harrison was helping dispatch volunteers driving all-terrain vehicles on supply runs to people still on ridgetops. Many don't want to leave their houses, while others lost their vehicles and need help getting to town.Bradley Billheimer, who hiked down to the fire station to access the internet, said he had just talked to his mom for the first time since the storm. He feared his house would be without power for months."I think we're going to walk out in a couple of days," he said. In another county that sits alongside the Tennessee state line, crews were just finishing clearing main routes and reaching side roads that wind through switchbacks and cross small bridges that can be tricky to navigate even in the best weather. Each road present ted an ew challenge"Everything is fine, and then they come around a bend and the road is gone, and it's one big gully or the bridge is gone." said Charlie Wallin, a commissioner in Watauga County. "We can only get so far." Most people the crews come across turn out to be fine and just in need of water, but every day there are new requests to check on someone who hasn't been heard from yet, Wallin said. When the search will end is hard to tell, he said."You hope you're getting closer, but it's still hard to know," he said.A week into the search and rescue operations in Buncombe County, which includes the hard-hit tourist city of Asheville and where more than 72 have been killed, the county doesn't have an official tally of people who are unaccounted for or missing. The county sheriff said his office believes more than 200 people are missing.

Iran's Khamenei to give 1st Friday sermon in 5 years days after attack on Israel

World Iran's supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei is set to lead Friday prayers and deliver a public sermon that could shed light on the Islamic republic's plans after a massive missile attack on enemy Israel.

Khamenei's rare Friday sermon -- a first in almost five years -- comes three days before the one-year anniversary of the Israel-Hamas war in Gaza, triggered by the Iran-backed Palestinian group's October 7 attack. The supreme leader, who wields the highest authority in Iran, will lead Muslims in prayer at the Imam Khomeini Grand Mosalla mosque in central Tehran, his official website said. The prayer will follow "a commemoration ceremony" at 10:30 am (0700 GMT) for Hassan Nasrallah, the slain leader of Tehran-backed Lebanese armed movement Hezbollah. Iran's Revolutionary Guards, who answer to Khamenei, said Tuesday's barrages of some 200 missiles were in retaliation for Israel's killing of Nasrallah alongside Guards commander Abbas Nilforoushan in a late September strike on Beirut, and of Hamas leader Ismail Haniyeh in Tehran in July.Khamenei last led Friday prayers in January 2020 after Iran fired missiles at a US army base in Iraq, in response to a strike that killed revered Revolutionary Guards commander Qasem Soleimani.

In Tehran on Thursday, crowds waving Hezbollah and Iran flags gathered outside the former US embassy building in Tehran to denounce Israeli "crimes" in the Gaza Strip and in Lebanon, Iranian media reported.Khamenei had declared public mourning in Iran for Nasrallah and on Wednesday said that the Hezbollah chiefs death was "not a small matter" Hamas.

Hezbollah and other armed groups in the Middle East are part of the Iran-aligned "axis of resistance" opposed to Israel and its ally, the United States. Analysts said Iran's missile attack- its second-ever directly targeting Israel - was meant to counter a string of setbacks suffered by Tehran and its regional allies. Iran has said this week's attack was carried out in "self-defence" and warned of "crushing attacks" on Israel if it retaliated. The Islamic republic has also warned the US

-- Israel's top arms provider - against intervening, threatening "a harsh response" if it did.Washington has said Iran must suffer "consequences", which may be coordinated with Israeli officials, for the ballistic missile fire. US President Joe Biden said on Thursday he was discussing possible Israeli strikes on Iranian oil sites.In April, Tehran had sent missiles and drones against Israel in retaliation for a deadly Israeli strike on Iran's consulate in Damascus. In both attacks, nearly all missiles were intercepted by Israel or its allies.

Biden says US discussing Israel's strikes on Iran oil sites

Washington The US is discussing strikes on Iran's oil facilities as retaliation for Tehran's missile attack on Israel, President Joe Biden said on Thursday, while Israel's military pressed ahead with its campaign against Iran-backed armed group Hezbollah in Lebanon. As Israel weighs its options after its arch-foe Iran launched its largest ever assault on Tuesday, Biden was asked whether he would support Israel striking Iran's oil facilities. His comments contributed to a surge in global oil prices, and rising Middle East tensions have made traders worry about potential supply disruptions.

"There is nothing going to happen today," Biden said. On Wednesday, the president said he would not support any Israeli strike on Iran's nuclear sites.

Israel's UN Ambassador Danny Danon told CNN on Thursday his country has "a lot of options" for retaliation and would show Tehran its strength "soon". A US official said Washington does not believe Israel has decided yet how to respond to Iran. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has vowed Iran will pay for Tuesday's missile attack, and Washington said it would work with its longtime ally to ensure Iran faced "severe consequences." Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian, speaking in Doha, said on Thursday that Tehran would be ready to respond. "Any type of military attack, terrorist act or crossing our red lines will be met with a decisive response by our

Israel's military told residents of more than 20 towns in south Lebanon to evacuate their homes immediately on Thursday as it pressed on with a cross-border incursion and struck Hezbollah targets in a suburb of Beirut. #### North Korea's Kim threatens to destroy South Korea with nuclear strikes if provoked

SEOUL.North Korean leader Kim Jong Un threatened to use nuclear weapons and destroy South Korea permanently if provoked, state media reported Friday, after the South's leader warned that Kim's regime would collapse if he attempted to use nuclear arms. The exchange of such rhetoric between the rival Koreas is nothing new, but the latest comments come during heightened animosities over the North's recent disclosure of a nuclear facility and its continuation of missile tests. Next week, observers say North Korea's rubber-stamp parliament is expected to constitutionally declare a hostile "two-state" system on the Korean Peninsula to formally reject reconciliation with South Korea and codify new national borders. During a visit to a special operation forces unit on Wednesday, Kim said his military "would use without hesitation all the offensive forces it possesses, including nuclear weapons," if South Korea attempts to use armed forces encroaching upon the sovereignty of North Korea, according to the North's official Korean Central News Agency. "If such a situation comes, the permanent existence of Seoul and the Republic of Korea would be impossible," Kim said, using South Korea's official name. Kim's statement was a response to South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol's speech at his country's Armed Forces Day on Tuesday. Unveiling South Korea's most powerful Hyunmoo-5 ballistic missile and other conventional weapons that could target North Korea, Yoon said the day that North Korea tries to use nuclear weapons would.

Arab states reassure their neutrality to Iran amid conflict with Israel

Gulf Arab nations reassured Iran of their neutrality in its conflict with Israel during meetings in Doha, emphasising deescalation amid concerns that regional violence could threaten their oil facilities.

Dubai. Gulf Arab states sought to reassure Iran of their neutrality in the conflict between Tehran and Israel in meetings in Doha this week on the back of concerns that a wider escalation in violence could threaten their oil facilities, two sources told Reuters. Ministers from Gulf Arab states and Iran attending a meeting of Asian nations hosted by Qatar centred their conversations around de-escalation, the sources said. The Islamic Republic launched its largest ever assault on Israel on Tuesday in what it said was retaliation for Israel's assassination of senior Hamas and Hezbollah leaders and its operations in Gaza and Lebanon.Tehran said its attack was over, barring further provocation, but Israel has promised to hit back hard.US news website Axios, citing Israeli officials, reported on Wednesday that Israel could target oil production facilities inside Iran as retaliation.Urgent de-escalation was at the top of the agenda for all

The Qatari foreign ministry, the Iranian foreign ministry, the UAE foreign ministry, Kuwait's foreign ministry and the Saudi government communications office did not immediately respond to a request for comment. Iran has not threatened to attack Gulf oil facilities, but it has warned that if "Israeli supporters" intervene directly, their interests in the region would be targeted.

"The Gulf states think it's unlikely that Iran will strike their oil facilities, but the Iranians are dropping hints they might from unofficial sources. It's a tool the Iranians have against the US and the global economy," Ali Shihabi, a Saudi commentator close to the Royal Court, said. Top oil exporter Saudi Arabia has had a political rapprochement with Tehran in recent years, which has helped ease regional tensions, but relations remain difficult. Saudi Arabia has been wary of an Iranian strike on its oil facilities since a 2019 attack on its key refinery at Abqaiq briefly shut down more than 5 per cent of global oil supply. Iran denied involvement. "The GCC message to the Iranians is, 'please de-escalate',' Shihabi said, referring to the Gulf Cooperation Council that is made up of the UAE, Bahrain, Saudi Arabia, Oman, Qatar and Kuwait.Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian, speaking at the event in Doha, said Iran would be ready to respond and warned against "silence" in the face of Israel's "warmongering"."Any type of military attack, terrorist act or crossing our red lines will be met with a decisive response by our armed forces," he said.

Ex-Donald Trump aide Cassidy Hutchinson now 'proud' to vote for Kamala Harris

Cassidy Hutchinson, a former aide to Trump's White House Chief of Staff Mark Meadows, announced her endorsement of Trump's Democratic rival, Kamala Harris, in the November 5 presidential election.

World Donald Trump is going to have another familiar name in the opposition camp. Cassidy Hutchinson, a former aide to Trump's White House Chief of Staff Mark Meadows, announced her endorsement of Trump's Democratic rival in the fast-approaching presidential election. Hutchinson endorsed Vice President Kamala

Harris, saying her decision was based on the candidate's character and her belief about who can uphold the rule of law, reported the Washington Post. Hutchinson was one of the many individuals who was thoroughly grilled and testified extensively during the January 6, 2021 insurrection investigation by a House committee which probed the attack on the Capitol building by Trump supporters after the 2020 presidential elections. Hutchinson made her decision to support Harris during her Wednesday night appearance on MSNBC."I've known for quite a long time, number one, that I would never in my life vote for Donald Trump ever again," Hutchinson told MSNBC host Lawrence O'Donnell. She added that she had known "for a long time" that she would be voting for the Democratic ticket when it was led by President Joe Biden, and now,

Harris.A couple of things weighed into Hutchinson's decision. Firstly, she said, it was based on having seen Trump "up close" and "believing him when he tells us who he is." To make it worse, watching Trump select Ohio Senator JD Vance as his running mate only made the decision easier for Hutchinson. Having endorsed Harris,

Hutchinson has joined a growing number of other Republicans who have announced their support for Harris – the list includes former Wyoming congresswoman Liz Cheney and her father, former vice president Dick Cheney. "It's just a despicable betrayal of the Republican Party," Hutchison said. Later she added: "The character of our leaders really matters, too. We need to be able to elect people that we can trust to uphold our rule of law."She added: "But Donald Trump and JD Vance cannot be trusted with the Constitution. They cannot be trusted to uphold our rule of law, and they can't be trusted to enact responsible policy."Trump and his allies have long maintained that the former president has united the party and helped get rid of those with questionable loyalties to his policies.

The operation stemmed from an NIA raid at Devi's residence in AP Colony on September 19, where authorities seized Rs 4.3 crore in cash and numerous weapons. The raid, led by NIA DSP Ajay Pratap Singh, reportedly involved a demand if he did not comply. Following Yadav's complaint, the CBI confirmed the allega-

The CBI is currently conducting a thorough investigation, including a review of Singh's previous tenure. Additionally, Ravindra Yadav, a personal assistant to Manorama Devi, has suggested that the NIA raid may have been politically motivated, implicating a possible connection to RJD leaders.

The NIA has since acknowledged the developments, issuing a statement on X (formerly Twitter) on October 4. The case continues to unfold as further investigations are underway.

The power will be transmitted from Nepal to India via the 400 KV Dhalkebar-Muzaffarpur cross-border transmission line, with the Indian grid facilitating its onward delivery to Bangladesh. The Nepal Electricity Authority (NEA) will measure the exported energy at the Muzaffarpur point, anticipating earnings of approximately 330 million rupees from the sale. Additionally, during the meeting, the three nations

Israel will be defeated:

Speaking in front of ten of thousands of supporters, Khamenei called the missile strikes on Israel a "public service".

Israel will not win against Hamas and Hezbollah, said Khemenei in his address.

The supreme leader of Iran also lauded Hassan Nasrallah, the chief of Lebanese militant group Hezbollah, who was killed in an Israeli airstrike in Beirut last week. Khamenei said Nasrallah's death won't go in vain urging all Muslims to back Lebanon in defeating Israel.

UK hands over Chagos Islands to Mauritius

London: The United Kingdom announced on Thursday that it has reached an agreement to transfer the Chagos Islands to Mauritius, concluding decades of negotiations and disputes over Britain's last African colony. This landmark agreement follows 13 rounds of talks that began in 2022, sparked by the International Court of Justice (ICJ) and UN General Assembly recognizing Mauritius's sovereignty claims in 2019 and 2021.

Historically, before granting independence to Mauritius in 1968, the UK separated the Chagos archipelago to create the British Indian Ocean Territory (BIOT). This separation involved the unlawful expulsion of 1,500 to 2,000 islanders, enabling the UK to lease Diego Garcia, the largest island, to the United States for military purposes.

Despite UN rulings demanding the return of the islands, the UK had initially dismissed these findings, asserting that the ICJ's decision was merely advisory. The forced displacement of the Chagossian community, which had lived on the islands for centuries, was carried out between 1967 and 1973. This included not only Diego Garcia but also Peros Banhos and Salomon.

In a symbolic act of defiance, the Mauritian ambassador to the UN, Jagdish Koonjul, raised the Mauritian flag at Peros Banhos in February 2022, marking Mauritius's first expedition to the territory since the islanders were expelled.

Under the new agreement, the UK will retain control of the military base on Diego Garcia while recognizing Mauritius's sovereignty over the Chagos archipelago. UK Foreign Secretary David Lammy emphasized the UK government's commitment to maintaining a strong relationship with Mauritius. However, many Chagossians have expressed frustration over their exclusion from the negotiations. Chagossian Voices, a community organization, condemned the lack of consultation, stating that the indigenous inhabitants' views have been "consistently and deliberately ignored." The United States welcomed the agreement as a "historic" step, reaffirming its support for the negotiations between the UK and Mauritius. The U.S. Department of State noted that the agreement secures the future of the joint U.S.-UK military facility on Diego Garcia.

In a related statement, India's Ministry of External Affairs expressed support for the agreement, highlighting its commitment to Mauritius's sovereignty claims and the broader decolonization process. The agreement is seen as a significant development in resolving the longstanding Chagos dispute in compliance with international

Repeating The 2017 Formula

In the 2017 Assembly elections, SP and Congress teamed up, calling themselves the 'do ladko ki jodi' (two boys' alliance). SP ran for 298 seats, while Congress contested on 105. In the 2024 Lok Sabha polls under the INDIA alliance, SP contested 63 seats and Congress 17, successfully outperforming the BJP. SP won 37 seats, while Congress secured 6.

Now, Akhilesh Yadav aims to replicate this strategy in the upcoming bypolls, offering Congress only 1-2 seats. However, emboldened by its Lok Sabha performance, Congress is pushing for a larger share, pursuing a stronger position for future elections.

The AAP chief said he would return to the post again only after he gets a "certificate of honesty" from the people of Delhi in the Assembly polls due in February next year.Kejriwal was in Tihar Jail for nearly six months in connection with alleged irregularities in the Delhi liquor policy of 2021-22. Kejriwal and his party have consistently denied the allegations, accusing the BJP of a political vendetta.

"Will Quit Politics If BJP Proves Even Inch Of Land...": Bhupinder Hooda

Chandigarh: Launching a counter-offensive after the BJP alleged that the Congress, during its rule in Haryana, gave land of farmers at peanuts to their 'damad', Bhupinder Singh Hooda Thursday said if the saffron party showed proof that even a single inch of government land was given to Robert Vadra, then he would quit politics. They say land was given to Robert Vadra, husband of Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and son-in-law of Sonia Gandhi.I challenge them to give details of the land," Mr Hooda, whose party is eyeing to return to power in Haryana after a decade long hiatus, told reporters in Karnal.

The former chief minister alleged the BJP is spreading false propaganda about Robert Vadra that he was given land."I challenge that the Congress did not give even an inch of government land to Robert Vadra. If the BJP shows proof of giving land to Vadra, I will leave politics," he said. The BJP rode to power in Haryana for the first time on its own in 2014. The party had then made alleged irregularities in land deals during the previous Mr Hooda regime a major poll issue. Even in the 2024 Assembly polls, BJP leaders during campaigning, targeted the Congress over this.Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while campaigning in Haryana recently, said, "Under the Cogress rule, 'dalalon' (middlemen) and 'damad' used to call the shots". Union Home Minister Amit Shah had also targeted the then Mr Hooda regime, saying "Dealers, 'dalals (middlemen) and 'damads' (son-in-law) used to rule during the Hooda government's time and corruption was rampant,".In a poll rally in Gurugram's Badshahpur, Shah had alleged, "Several acres of land in Gurugram was destroyed to make 'Delhi's damad' wealthy. The Congress party gave land of farmers at peanuts to their 'damad'.

And today they are talking about farmers," Shah had said.Mr Hooda also said, "The BJP does not have any issue, so they accuse me of nepotism. 'My grandfather was a freedom fighter. I am proud that my father late Ranbir Singh has signed the Constitution along with Baba Saheb (B R Ambedkar). We have reached here today after a long struggle," he said.

Mr Hooda hit out at the BJP government, alleging it has a dubious record of 78 persons being killed in the state "as it ran a government of lathis and bullets". Speaking to reporters in Karnal on the last day of election campaigning, Mr Hooda launched a full-frontal attack on the BJP and said that the BJP has run a government of lathis and bullet in the state for 10 years."During this anti-people government, a record 78 people were killed by police bullets," he alleged."During the Dera episode (in 2017) in Panchkula (violence which broke out after Dera Sacha Sauda chief Gurmeet Ram Rahim Singh was convicted for raping two disciples), 40

Why crop diversification has eluded Punjab

A CURSE necessarily hangs over all partisan electoral politics: good intentions are repeated ad nauseam, turning clichés before becoming policy. Crop diversification is exactly that. Pragmatic economics demands it, and the state wants it, but the interests of a politically dominant landowning class lie elsewhere, and the Centre isn't helping.It's been on the table for more than 40 years, first appearing in the Johl Committee Report of 1986, and then in 2002, followed by 2013, 2018, and, now, the 2023 policy initiatives.

Agriculture is one subject that brooks no delay when it comes to policy since factors involved include even God —otherwise spelt as rainfall, drought, heatwaves, cold spells, frost, snow, storms, floods, cyclones, pests, fungal/bacterial action and climate change. Still, our political leadership and bureaucracy have dilly-dallied on crop diversification files, often marked 'Urgent'. That 'urgency' cannot be overemphasised as we have reached a 'do-or-die' situation Punjab sensed fairly early that an effective way to mitigate some negative outcomes of wheat-paddy monocultures was crop diversification. Monoculture was not an autonomous choice; India needed food security. The input-responsive dwarf varieties ushered the Green Revolution and Punjab rose to the occasion with the consolidation of landholdings; infrastructure like tubewells, link roads and mandis; and institutions for credit, inputs, marketing and research and development.Punjab's farmers worked hard. India's rice production, a mere 23.54 million tonnes (mt) in 1949-50, jumped to 64.15 mt by 1985-86, while the wheat output during the same period recorded a seven times increase: from 6.39 mt. The country's total foodgrain production tripled, from 54.92 mt.By the early 1980s, we became self-reliant in food and even exported wheat for the first time in 1985. By this time, the FCI's procurement was declining, farm incomes had begun to slide as production costs kept rising. Consequent protests by farmers led to the constitution of a committee under Dr SS Johl to look into the foodgrain price and procurement policy. Its 1986 report recommended shifting 20% of the area under paddy/wheat to fruits, vegetables, pulses, oilseeds, green fodder for sustaining Punjab's resources.But in 1987, the monsoon in India failed. Rice production fell by 5.07 mt, wheat by 5.9 mt and total foodgrain production, expected at 154 mt, stopped at 138.97 mt. Foodgrain stocks, a reassuring 28.28 mt on July 1, 1986, had nosedived to 11.90 mt on July 1, 1988. That India had been able to feed its burgeoning population despite the drought ruining the kharif crop in 21 states was a matter of pride. But it also revived concerns about depleted stocks. Neither politicians nor policy formulators cared anymore for the Johl Committee's wisdom. Instead, Punjab focussed even more on paddy, again not an autonomous choice; India needed it.

The neoliberal agricultural policy regime of the 1990s meant greater deregulation of input prices. Also, since PDS became a target scheme as part of larger structural adjustment reforms, buffer stocks of foodgrain affected procurement levels. Add to it the near-freeze on the MSP for five years from 2000-01 to 2005-06 - Rs 610 to Rs 650 per quintal for wheat; Rs 540 to Rs 600 for paddy. We had a full-blown crisis on our hands. The high cost of production and the resultant squeeze in income led to farmers' indebtedness and the rise in farmer suicides. The only coping mechanism was the open-ended procurement of paddy and wheat at MSP. Politics responded with free power for agriculture in 1997, giving new committee to look into the crisis. Dr SS Johl headed it again in 2002. Its report recommended shifting a million hectares under wheat and paddy to less water-guzzling, soil- and ecology-friendly crops like oilseeds and pulses. This involved cost.

Undue focus on profit led to Boeing's fall from the sky

THE Seattle-born Boeing Aerospace has certainly fallen on bad days, thereby giving jitters to US defence, civil aviation and Wall Street investors. The iconic Boeing had been on a monopoly-like takeover spree of St Louis, Missouri headquartered McDonnell Douglas-MD (August 1997) since after the simultaneous demise of the USSR and First Cold War. Today, it faces an existential threat as it is afflicted by technology failure, quality and safety issues of product, high financial loss and, now, the unheard of labour trouble in the cradle of the world's capitalism. In fact, the latter arguably constitutes the gravest threat to the recovery of Boeing Company any time soon in the cutthroat competitive aviation market.

History shows that in the perilous industry of aviation, even the best of flying machines have crashed and corrective measures initiated subsequently. When the brand new Boeing 737-MAX crashed in 2018 and 2019 in quick succession, the bosses of the famed US manufacturer pooh-poohed it, trying to pass the blame for the fatal mishaps and the deaths of 346 persons aboard on to pilot error even before the accident inquiries had made their findings. The worst act was that many detected an unusual "nexus" between the behemoth Boeing Company and US government officials of the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). An eerie feeling grew that not all was well with Boeing and someone somewhere was shielding some unpardonable wrongdoings of the manufacturer for the sake of profitability, corporate greed and monstrous money-making Wall Street stock market investors.

Nevertheless, when the failure and gross misdemeanour of the famed aeroplane-maker became too brazen to be hidden, Boeing capitulated owing to the sheer pressure of the enlightened American air transport passengers whose acquaintance with aviation is like the developing world's familiarity with the rickshaw and the rickety bus.

Boeing had been caught red-handed and had to plead "guilty of criminal fraud" charge. In July 2024, the US Department of Justice determined that the company had violated an agreement that had protected it from prosecution for more than three years. Boeing's luck has run out and now it is penance time. Serious acts of omission and commission are tumbling out of the cuPunjaboard. The latest is production stoppage owing to labour unrest on pay, perk, privilege and contract renewal terms. An additional salvo against Boeing was fired by the NTSB on September 27. It issued "urgent safety recommendations" for some B-737, including the embattled MAX line, warning that critical "flight controls could jam", especially when "applied during landing, or rollout, causing loss of control or departure from runway." The NTSB recommended that Boeing should urgently come up with an alternative solution and warn the pilots about it. The moot question today is: why and how an institution like Boeing, known for flight safety, tech quality and enduring long-haul comfortability, has come to such a sorry state of affairs. The answer, after going through the open source record of the last five decades, appears simple but deplorable and avoidable.

After the August 1997 MD and Boeing merger, the latter was elevated as the largest aerospace company in world, with 2,38,000 employees and backlog exceeding $100 billion. Boeing's Phil Condit became the Chairman and CEO, and MD's Harry Stonecipher became the President.It, however, soon became a contrast of two biggies. Condit's psyche was that of a high-tech engineering company's rock-steady boss, harping on quality product automatically attracting customers in commercial aviation. Stonecipher, on other hand, was a high-profile marketing salesman passionate about maximising profit, with an eye on the interests of Wall Street investors to pump up stock and multiplying money rather than maintaining machine quality on which depended hundreds of lives in air. It's a titanic contrast of cultures between a techie who is an integral part of the industry and that of a trader whose ethos and ethics banked on quick buying and selling to make billions of dollars.

From "courage, will, perseverance and skill" of the "Boeing family" of the "industrial house", the former MD boss tried to transform his new company to imbibe "teamwork" of a "trading house". Angry old-timers quipped: "When MD guys came in, they just went through them (old Boeing engineers) like a knife through butter" and appeared "hunter killer assassins and Boeing Boy Scouts."

Newcomer Stonecipher soon became the de facto number one. He inducted a former General Motors executive to handle Boeing's finance to make it a "shareholder-friendly company" despite the conscientious protestors' reasoning: "Have you ever seen a bean-counter build an airplane?"Henceforth, Boeing aircraft had to follow "return on net assets" (RONA). The high-tech aircraft started turning into fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) in 1997. Twenty-seven years down the lane, the results are there for all to see. The FAA, NTSB and US Congress are all worried and use strong language owing to the meteoric descent of Boeing from its glorious flight path of 100-plus years. But the USA today is no longer the industrial powerhouse. It is a price-conscious, profiteering traders of glorious predecessors. No wonder, the US aviation industry's downhill as chicken has come home to roost.

The founder of the company, William E Boeing, is a forgotten hero. The man is known for perfection, accuracy, precision and intolerant of shoddy work in the workshop. The saying goes that the founder "exclaimed at the sight of a frayed cable on one of his planes that he would close shop rather than send out work of this kind." The successors of that great predecessor obviously cannot fit into his shoes as they are too big and broad for them. Hence, unless Boeing goes back to its original job of "aircraft manufacturing", which made it the world leader, the marketing messiahs can never bring the company back to flight safety, tech quality and product durability to win the trust, faith and confidence of the users of the Great Boeing of yore.

under duress what their employers want. The interministerial panel set up by the Centre to look into the matter has reportedly identified gaps in the banking, immigration and telecom sectors; thus, inter-departmental cooperation is the need of the hour to tackle this menace. At long last, the Union Ministry of Telecommunications has decided to disconnect around two crore mobile connections that were procured on the basis of forged documents or are being misused for cybercrime. Such is the audacity of cyber fraudsters that they managed to dupe renowned industrialist SP Oswal of Rs 7 crore. Crime control is vitally important, but it must go hand in hand with a reality check. The desperation of Indians to take up jobs in other developing countries runs counter to the country's reputation of being the world's fastest-growing major economy. The lofty goal of Viksit Bharat will remain a pipe dream if domestic job opportunities fail to meet the needs and aspirations of skilled young people.

Centralised setup weighing down MEA

Ministry's work is so vast and complex that it requires several secretary-level officers to supervise it

THE BJP's bench strength in the realm of foreign affairs has been boosted by the entry of Bhaswati Mukherjee, who joined the party three weeks ago. Mukherjee specialised in European affairs and multilateral diplomacy during her distinguished diplomatic career. Two other leading former diplomats, Hardeep Puri and S Jaishankar, are Cabinet ministers. Jaishankar has been Prime Minister Narendra Modi's choice as External Affairs Minister (EAM) since 2019. Clearly, Modi has great confidence in Jaishankar's diplomatic abilities for he chose him as the Foreign Secretary (FS) when he was only a few days away from retirement in 2015. That led to the premature end of then FS Sujatha Singh's term. She adopted the honourable course of retiring and refused to accept any office. Puri's considerable talents and experience of multilateral and commercial diplomacy, including extraordinary expertise in World Trade Organisation matters, have not been consistently used, though he served for a while as the Minister of State in the Commerce Ministry. As a Cabinet minister, he has managed the portfolios of Urban Affairs and Petroleum; now, only the latter. Puri, Mukherjee and Jaishankar belong to the 1974, 1976 and 1977 batches, respectively, of the Indian Foreign Service.

Modi now has two persons in the party, apart from Jaishankar, with substantial diplomatic experience to take soundings on any foreign policy matter, should he want to do so. Many leaders look for fresh ideas and consult other knowledgeable persons in the government as well as the party on critical issues. This does not detract from the authority of the ministers concerned. Also, it is entirely Modi's prerogative as the Prime Minister to choose the Cabinet members and allot portfolios to ministers. As he is now heading a government in which the BJP does not enjoy a majority on its own, this, at least, applies completely to his own party.

For almost a decade, Jaishankar has had a substantial influence on India's foreign policy. Over the same period, he has had a decisive say in the complexion of the policymaking framework in the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA). In both areas, External Affairs (MEA). In both areas, Jaishankar has followed Modi's instincts.

Two points would serve as illustrations. Modi places great emphasis on the value of personal rapport between leaders. In May 2015, while addressing the Indian community in Shanghai, he had referred to his relationship with Chinese President Xi Jinping. Modi had said: "The heads of two states sharing such affinity, such closeness, such brotherhood! This is 'plus one' to what is traditionally discussed in world relations. And many will need time to understand this. I believe that India and China have a special responsibility towards the welfare of the humanity. Both India and China, in order to fulfil this responsibility, will need to prepare their own people and work hand in hand with each other.'

Jaishankar was not among those who took time to understand the significance of this 'plus one' factor in inter-state relations. While delivering the IISS (International Institute of Strategic Studies) Fullerton lecture in Singapore two months after Modi's China visit, Jaishankar, then the FS, dwelt on India-China ties as well. He said, "That the two neighbours, whose parallel, if differential, rise offers a somewhat unique situation in world history, agreed on a constructive model of relationship is no small thing. Past precedents in global history have been largely otherwise. This is not just a conceptual proposition. Those of you who would have watched the Modi-Xi interaction in Xian would have noted that this approach was reflected in their demeanour. The mood today allows for frank and direct conversations between the leaderships. Their shared appearances — including the 'world's most powerful selfie' — and utterances would have been difficult to envisage a year ago." Jaishankar's imprint on the foreign policymaking setup in the MEA has a background. The ministry's work is so vast that it requires a number of secretary-level officers to supervise it. These MEA secretaries were traditionally led by the FS as the 'first among equals'. The FS had always been the MEA's administrative head and also coordinated work, where required, but all secretaries were independent in terms of the work allotted to them. They reported and also directly advised the political leadership in matters relating to their charge. This balance was disturbed after Jaishankar became the FS.

It was often seen that he was present at the PM's meetings with foreign leaders, especially abroad, even if the leader belonged to a nation where another secretary was responsible for the bilateral engagement. In the past, only the secretary concerned was present to assist the PM during his interactions with such leaders. With Jaishankar as the FS being there too, the importance of the dealing secretary diminished in the eyes of the foreign interlocutors, both within the MEA and in other sections of the Indian bureaucracy.

With Jaishankar acting as a 'funnel' of information and the assessments on foreign policy issues being directly brought to Modi's attention, a greater element of 'centralisation' occurred in the MEA. This was contrary to what was needed because the work of the MEA— as in the Finance Ministry— is too complex to be handled by one secretary. Besides, it is the secretary handling an issue or a bilateral relationship continuously who has far greater knowledge of it than the FS. This process of undermining the role of other secretaries has continued even after Jaishankar became the EAM. This led to some of them preferring to accept the kind of ambassadorial assignments which, in the past, no secretary-level officer would have done.

aishankar, both as the FS and the EAM, has had a unique opportunity to decentralise and strengthen the functioning of the ministry. But that has not happened so far, and it is doubtful if it would happen in the future.

इजराइल-ईरान जंग का असर, कच्चे तेल की कीमत में उछाल, ब्रेंट क्रूड 78 डॉलर प्रति बैरल के करीब

नर्ड दिल्ली। इजराइल-ईरान जंग के बीच अंतरराष्ट्रीय बाजार में कच्चे तेल की कीमत में उछाल है। पिछले 24 घंटे में ब्रेंट क्रुड का मुल्य करीब चार डॉलर प्रति बैरल उछलकर 78 डॉलर प्रति बैरल और डब्ल्यूटीआई क्रड 74 डॉलर प्रति बैरल के करीब पहुंच गया है। हालांकि, सार्वजनिक क्षेत्र की तेल एवं गैस विपणन कंपनियों ने शुक्रवार को पेट्रोल-डीजल की कीमत में कोई बदलाव नहीं किया है।

अंतरराष्ट्रीय बाजार में हफ्ते के पांचवें दिन शुरुआती कारोबार में ब्रेंड क्रूड 0.05 डॉलर यानी 0.06 फीसदी की बढ़त के साथ 77.67 डॉलर प्रति बैरल के स्?तर पर ट्रेंड कर रहा है। वहीं, वेस्ट टेक्सस इंटरमीडिएट (डब्ल्यूटीआई) क्रूड भी 0.08 डॉलर यानी 0.11 फीसदी की

उछाल के साथ 73.79 डॉलर प्रति बैरल पर कारोबार कर रहा है। इंडियन ऑयल की वेबसाइट के मुताबिक दिल्ली में पेट्रोल 94.72

रुपये, डीजल 87.62 रुपये, मुंबई में पेट्रोल 104.21 रुपये, डीजल 92.15 रुपये, कोलकाता में पेट्रोल 103.94 रुपये, डीजल 90.76 रुपये, चेन्नई में पेट्रोल 100.75 रुपये और डीजल 92.34 रुपये प्रति लीटर की दर पर उपलब्ध है।

मिडिल ईस्ट के तनाव से कच्चे तेल की कीमत में लगी आग, 3 दिन में 5 प्रतिशत से ज्यादा की तेजी

नई दिल्ली। इजरायल और ईरान के बीच बढ़े तनाव की वजह से दुनिया भर के शेयर बाजारों पर तो असर पडा ही है, ऑयल मार्केट में भी इसके कारण उबाल आ गया है। सिर्फ तीन दिन में ही क्रूड ऑयल (कच्चा तेल) की कीमत में 5 प्रतिशत से अधिक की तेजी आ गई है, जिसके कारण ब्रेंट क्रूड 75 प्रति डॉलर बैरल के करीब पहुँच गया है। इसी तरह डब्लूटीआई क्रूंड भी 71 डॉलर प्रति बैरल के स्तर को पार करके कारोबार कर रहा है। एमसीएक्स पर भी कच्चा तेल आज 6 हजार रुपये के स्तर के करीब पहुंच कर कारोबार करता रहा। माना जा रहा है कि अगर मिडिल ईस्ट के तनाव में जल्दी ही कमी नहीं आई, तो क्रुड ऑयल के भाव में जोरदार उछाल आ सकता है। कुछ एक्सपर्ट्स बैरल के स्तर तक पहुंचने की

क्रूड की कीमत के 100 डॉलर प्रति प्रति बैरल के निचले स्तर तक गिरने के बाद 71.82 डॉलर प्रति बैरल के आशंका भी जता रहे हैं। मिडिल ईस्ट स्तर पर बंद हुआ था, जबकि 3

से क्रुड ऑयल की सप्लाई बाधित अक्टूबर को इसका भाव 74.84 होने की आशंका के कारण अक्टूबर के पहले तीन दिनों में ही कच्चे तेल की कीमत में जोरदार इजाफा हुआ है। एक अक्टूबर को ब्रांड क्रूड 69.92 🛮 डॉलर प्रति बैरल के स्तर पर था, जो

डॉलर प्रति बैरल के उच्च स्तर पर पहुंच गया। इसी तरह डब्लूटीआई क्रूंड भी एक अक्टूबर को 66.33 कमोडिटी एक्सचेंज (एमसीएक्स) पर भी कच्चा तेल छलांग लगाता हुआ नजर आ रहा है। एमसीएक्स पर एक अक्टूबर को कच्चे तेल का भाव 5,577 रुपये के स्तर पर था, जबिक आज कच्चे तेल की कीमत उछल कर 5,982 रुपये के स्तर पर आ गई है। कमोडिटी मार्केट एक्सपर्ट्स का कहना है कि ईरान द्वारा इजरायल पर ताबड़तोड़ मिसाइल हमला करने के बाद तनाव अपने चरम पर पहुंच गया है। अगर इजरायल की ओर से इसी अंदाज में जवाबी कार्रवाई की जाती है, तो बाजार में क्रूड की सप्लाई पर काफी

ज्यादा असर पड़ सकता है। ऑयल

मार्केटिंग एक्सपर्ट रविंद्र जुनेजा का

हुआ तो कच्चे तेल के उत्पादन में भी कमी आएगी। इसके साथ ही मध्य पूर्व के अन्य देशों से होने वाली कच्चे तेल की सप्लाई पर भी असर पड़ेगा। कच्चे तेल के उत्पादन को लेकर भी तेल उत्पादक देशों के संगठन ओपेक प्लस में गतिरोध की स्थिति बनी हुई है। सऊदी अरब ने कच्चे तेल का उत्पादन बढाने का ऐलान किया है। वहीं कई देश कच्चे तेल के उत्पादन को सीमित रखना चाहते हैं, ताकि कच्चे तेल की कीमत में पिछले कुछ समय से जारी गिरावट पर रोक लगाई जा सके। कमोडिटी मार्केट एक्सपर्ट यशवंत लोहार का कहना है कि अगर जियो-पोलिटिकल टेंशन में और बढ़ोतरी हुई तो कच्चे तेल की कीमत एक बार फिर रफ्तार पकड़ कर 100 डॉलर प्रति बैरल की ऊंचाई तक जा सकती है।

Manchester United's Erik ten Hag asks for 'trust in process' after Porto scare

Porto. Manchester United manager Erik ten from fans, despite the club's recent struggles, including a 3-3 draw against Porto in the Europa League on October 4. United squandered a two-goal lead, with early strikes from Rasmus Hjlund in the 7th minute and Marcus Rashford in the 20th, but defensive lapses allowed Porto to equalize and eventually take the lead. A stoppagetime header from Harry Maguire salvaged a point for United. After the match, Ten Hag urged fans not to judge the team based on their current difficulties but to evaluate their progress at the end of the season. He emphasized that his process is still ongoing, and it is crucial to give it time to show results. Despite a busy summer transfer window, United have managed just three wins from their nine matches across all competitions this season. "We will get there. Don't judge us in this moment. Judge us at the end of the season. We are in the process and we will improve. We are now two seasons where we achieve finals. We have to develop and progress this team," Ten Hag said."We started the game very good, we dominated, scored two good goals, but then we lost control. So the start was good, the middle part was not good, and then we finished very good," Ten Hag added.United's draw against Porto marks a four-match winless streak, adding pressure on Ten Hag and the club. The Dutchman's future at the club is becoming more uncertain as poor results continue to mount. However, Ten Hag remains confident in the support of the board and is determined to turn things around. The manager insists that the team's long-term progress is more important than their current setbacks. He believes that once the new signings and tactical changes fully settle in, United will find consistency. United's next challenge comes against Unai Emery's Aston Villa in the Premier League on October 6, a must-win fixture as they look to break their current slump and restore faith in Ten Hag's process.

My father Mahavir Phogat worked hard for Vinesh, she never thanked him: Babita

Babita Phogat revealed how her father, Mahavir, helped Vinesh overcome personal loss and become one of India's most decorated wrestlers. Babita said it has been disappointing to see Vinesh not acknowledging coach Mahavir's contributions.

New Delhi Babita Phogat, cousin of former Indian wrestler Vinesh Phogat, expressed her disappointment over Vinesh's perceived lack of gratitude, particularly regarding her coach and uncle, Mahavir Phogat. Following the controversy surrounding the Paris Olympics, Babita claimed that Vinesh failed to acknowledge Mahavir's significant contributions to her career. Vinesh was disqualified from the Paris Olympics just before the gold medal match due to being 100 grams overweight, a situation that overshadowed her earlier achievements.

Vinesh's stellar run at the Paris Olympics ended on a sour note after the disqualification, which prompted her retirement from wrestling and a subsequent shift into politics, joining the Indian National Congress. The disqualification, despite her successful Olympic journey, marked a dramatic turn in her career.

Speaking on Sushant Sinha's podcast, Babita, a Commonwealth Games gold medallist from 2014, revealed her frustration regarding Vinesh's lack of appreciation for Mahavir Phogat. After the passing of Vinesh's father, Mahavir took on the role of her coach, playing a crucial part in her development as a wrestler.

You must have seen when Manu Bhaker returned home with her Olympic medal, her coach was by her side. Similarly, Aman Sehrawat came back with his medal and had his coach with him. But when Vinesh returned, Dipender Hooda was there with her. It's better for people to just give him (Dipender) the Dronacharya award. I believe that if my father had been standing beside her at the airport, there wouldn't have been so much politics surrounding this situation,"

MAHAVIR CRIED WHEN VINESH WAS DISQUALIFIED'

Babita said she saw her father Mahavir crying when Vinesh was disqualified from the Olympic final earlier in the year.

'I have seen my father cry just three times in my life. First, when my sisters and I got married, Second, when my uncle died and third, when Vinesh got disqualified from the Olympics," she said.

'These things need to be understood. I have seen how my father never allowed Vinesh to feel the absence of her father. When my uncle passed away, Vinesh, along with her brother and sister, left wrestling. My father went to their home. confronted their mother, and brought them back to the sport. Even when they didn't reach the training ground at 4 a.m., he would go to their house and bring them. When someone puts in so much hard work into training and never receives a thank you, it is understandably emotional for any coach, Babita added. Vinesh was also one of the key figures in the protest against former Wrestling Federation of India President, Brij Bhushan Singh, accused of sexual misconduct. Her involvement in the protests and her increasing role in Indian politics have kept her in the national Babita, who is a Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader, highlighted how Vinesh's entry into politics has changed her, suggesting a growing distance between the sisters since Vinesh's political debut. The clash between the two sisters adds another layer to the already complex narrative surrounding the Phogat family, a household synonymous with Indian wrestling success.

Manchester United's mishaps continue after surviving Porto scare in Europa League

-Manchester United blew a twogoal lead, ultimately settling for a 3-3 draw against Porto in the Europa League. Late heroics from Harry Maguire saved them from defeat, but criticism of their performance continues to mount.

Porto. Manchester United's rough run of form continued after they squandered a two-goal lead to settle for a 3-3 draw against Porto in their Europa League clash on October 4. United started strong, with early goals from Rasmus H. jlund in the 7th minute and Marcus Rashford in the 20th, giving the side a commanding advantage. However, they struggled to maintain their composure and allowed Porto to claw back into the match.

to Premier League rivals Tottenham Hotspur, pressure was mounting on manager Erik ten Hag to secure a positive result in this European fixture. Unfortunately for United, the draw only added fuel to the criticism the team has faced in recent weeks. Adding to United's woes, they went down to 10 men once again after captain Bruno Fernandes was shown a second yellow card, just a couple of days after his suspension from the Tottenham game was overturned. Porto quickly capitalized on United's defensive lapses, with veteran defender Pepe scoring in the 27th minute. Samu Omorodion followed with two goals-one in the 34th minute and another just after halftime in the 50th minute—to push Porto ahead. Despite their struggles, United managed to salvage a point thanks to a stoppage-time header from Harry Maguire. His late equalizer spared them the embarrassment of back-to-back defeats, but it was not enough to hide the mounting concerns over the team's performances.

This latest result makes it two draws in two Europa League matches for Ten Hag's United, who are now under increasing scrutiny to turn their season around. The pressure is only set to grow as the side seeks to find consistency and fight their way out of a tough start to the campaign.

Previously Rashmika Mandanna offered social media users a glimpse into some of her "life essentials". It comprised reading a good book, indulging in a scrumptious feast, sleeping well, enjoying sweet treats and travelling to her heart's content. Other well-being things on the list were sipping on coffee, having fun, spending time with her pet dog Aura and of course working hard. Rashmika dropped a carousel of pictures on Instagram that captured her engaged in these activities. A part of her caption read, "These are just some of the things I can't do without in my life right now. (I wish I could include all but only 10 can go up no, so part 2 soon) and as much as people see the actor side of me. My friends and family see only and only this side of me."
