Trump's second term foreign policy to focus on China challenge and strengthening ties with India, says Lisa Curtis

WASHINGTON. A major focus of President-elect Donald Trump's foreign policy will likely be on the China challenge, and it will likely involve building stronger strategic ties with India, an influential American expert has said. She added that the Quad will also likely remain an important forum for engagement for the incoming administration. Trump, 78, will be sworn in as the 47th President of the United States on January 20, making him the second president in American history after Grover Cleveland in 1892 to be elected to a non-consecutive second term. Trump previously served as the 45th President of the United States from 2017 to 2021.

'A major focus of the Trump II foreign policy will likely be on the China challenge, whether in the form of economic and military competition, the technology race, or countering China's strategy to dominate the Indo-Pacific," Lisa Curtis, who was deputy assistant to the president and senior director for South and Central Asia at the National Security Council (NSC) from 2017 to 2021, told PTI in an interview.

'We can expect the incoming Trump team to continue multiple lines of effort aimed at competing effectively with China. This will likely include investments in U.S. defense capabilities that enhance deterrence in the Indo-Pacific, as well as a greater focus on positioning U.S. defense assets in the region," she said.

Curtis further noted that Trump is likely to continue and may even strengthen the Biden-era restrictions on U.S. high technology to China through export controls but may also focus more on reaching bilateral trade deals that protect U.S. consumers.Trump's advisors, such as incoming National Security Advisor Michael Waltz and Secretary of State-designate Marco Rubio, will likely focus on strategic competition with China and working with allies and partners to circumscribe China's growing power and influence in the region, as well as to counter Chinese aggression and bullying of other Indo-Pacific nations, Curtis said.

Frump's economic team, on the other hand, will likely want to maintain a steady economic relationship with Beijing, accounting for the interests of U.S. businesses that have major investments in China. The way these differing areas of focus on U.S.-China relations play out inside the Trump administration could mirror the situation we saw in the first Trump term, when Trump reached a trade deal with China in January 2020, only to see U.S.-China relations plummet a few months later during the outbreak of COVID-19," she said. According to Curtis, a major aspect of the second Trump administration's strategy toward the Indo-Pacific will likely involve building stronger strateic ties with India.

While friction over trade issues will certainly be a factor in relations, these differences are unlikely to define the overall strategic partnership or get in the way of their joint goal to check China's influence," she said.

"For example, even though the Trump administration revoked India's GSP privileges in 2019, we saw tremendous goodwill between President Trump and Drime Minister Madiana and Trump and Prime Minister Modi, as evidenced during the 'Howdy, Modi' event in Houston in late 2019 and the 'Namaste, Trump' event in Ahmedabad in February 2020. The first Ahmedabad in February 2020. The first Trump administration also pulled out all stops to support India during its border crisis with China in the spring and summer of 2020, which contributed to the overall elevation of the U.S.-India relationship by the time Trump left office in January 2021," said the former White House official.

Curtis, who is currently a senior fellow and director of the Indo-Pacific Security Program at the Center for a New American Security think tank, said the Quad will also likely remain an important forum for engagement."The Quad was originally revived under Trump I and has since become an effective multilateral mechanism to support concepts like sovereignty and independence of nations, free and open seaways.

Powerful Winter Storm To Hit Half Of US With Snow, Ice And Strong Winds

Washington. A powerful winter storm began hammering the central United States on Saturday, with meteorologists warning that millions in the east of the country would face blizzard conditions, treacherous ice, frigid temperatures and severe travel disruptions.More than 60 million people are in the path of the dangerous storm, which is set to plunge the eastern half of the United States into a deep freeze of Arctic air through Monday. The National Weather Service (NWS) warned of ferocious weather and severe travel delays, with ice, snow and gale-force winds in states from the central plains to the Mid-Atlantic.Winter storm warnings have been issued from western Kansas clear across to the coastal states of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, an unusually broad 1,500-mile (2,400-kilometer) swath under immediate threat.

Disruptive winter storm to impact the Central Plains to the Mid-Atlantic through Monday with widespread heavy snow and damaging ice accumulations," the NWS said in its latest report. The agency warned that areas from northeastern Kansas to north-central Missouri would see "the heaviest snowfall in a decade."

Scientists say extreme weather change.- Travel disruptions -

The first major storm of 2025 was already wreaking havoc on travel, with Kansas City International Airport announcing closure of its flight operations Saturday "due to rapid ice accumulation."Parts of the eastern states of New York and Pennsylvania are facing "heavy lake-effect snow" coming off the Great Lakes that could dump as much as two feet (61 centimeters) there, according to the NWS.Forecast company AccuWeather said Saturday that the lake-effect snow total in the region, already blanketed in snow this week, could top four feet.

A blizzard will rage across the Central Plains by early Sunday, and "whiteout conditions will make travel extremely hazardous, with impassable roads and a high risk of motorists becoming stranded," the NWS said.

The US capital Washington could be blanketed in five inches or more of snow, with up to 10 inches possible in nearby areas.

With the jet stream diving southward, temperatures are expected to plunge, in some places to below zero degrees Fahrenheit (-18 Celsius), while strong wind gusts will compound the dangers. The mercury could sink tens of degrees thunderstorms are expected across the lower Mississippi Valley, the NWS forecast.Another major concern is freezing rain and sleet expected from Kansas eastward to Kentucky and Virginia, setting the stage for thick ice to coat roads, making travel hazardous, bringing down trees and electricity lines, and potentially leaving millions of customers without power during a cold snap. The NWS warned that it expected widespread tree damage and expected widespread tree damage and "long-lasting power outages" from Kansas to the central Appalachian Mountains.Conditions could prove especially perilous in the Appalachians, where a deadly hurricane in late September devastated communities and ravaged multiple communities and ravaged multiple southeastern states including Kentucky.Many of those communities are still recovering from the effects of that hurricane.

The new storm "will likely cause significant disruption and dangerous conditions on our roads and could cause significant power outages just 24 hours or so before it's going to get really cold in Kentucky," Governor Andy Beshear told an emergency meeting.

Gaza: Hamas Accuses Israel Of 'Horrific Crimes' After 94 Airstrikes Kill 184 In 3 Days

World The Hamas-run Gaza media office said that the Israeli army carried out 94 airstrikes and shelling on the Gaza Strip over the past 72 hours, killing 184 people. In its statement, the office on Saturday described the escalation as "dangerous and brutal," targeting unarmed civilians and residential areas, particularly in Gaza City. It added that many of the victims, either killed or injured, remained trapped under rubble, with damaged infrastructure obstructing their recovery and access to hospitals, Xinhua news agency reported.

Palestinian Civil Defence officials in Gaza confirmed that Israeli airstrikes had intensified violently over the past three days, which local residents have described as an extraordinarily difficult period. The statement held the Israeli army fully responsible for these "horrific crimes" and also criticised the US administration for providing Israel with weapons and political support.It called on the international community and the UN Security Council to uphold their legal and moral obligations by dispatching independent investigative teams to document these "heinous crimes" and ensure accountability for the perpetrators.

The BLA often claims responsibility for attacks on security forces and non-local Pakistanis, particularly those from Punjab, in Balochistan province. Pakistan has experienced an increase in attacks in recent months, especially in Balochistan and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province. The military reported that in 2024 alone, 383 soldiers and 925 militants have been killed in various clashes.Balochistan, which borders Afghanistan and Iran, has faced decades of sectarian, ethnic, and separatist violence. Militants in the region have also targeted foreign-funded energy projects, accusing external groups of exploiting the area's natural resources while neglecting local residents.

In November, separatists claimed responsibility for a bombing at Quetta's railway station that killed at least 26 people, including 14 soldiers. In August, the BLA carried out coordinated attacks involving dozens of assailants, killing at least 39 people, one of the highest tolls in recent years.

According to the Indian Health Ministry, a Joint Monitoring Group (JMG) meeting was convened in New Delhi on Saturday, chaired by the Director General of Health Services (DGHS), Ministry of Health and Family Welfare. The meeting saw participation from experts from WHO, the Disaster Management Cell (DM Cell), Integrated Disease Surveillance Programme

Regarding concerns of a potential spike in India, the Ministry reassured that healthcare providers have reported no unusual increase in respiratory illnesses in recent weeks, other than typical seasonal variations.

The rise of respiratory infections in China has sparked fears of another global health crisis similar to the COVID-19 pandemic. However, China has emphasized that it has been transparent in sharing information on COV-ID-19, despite WHO's requests for more data and access to better understand the virus's origins.

ICMR to Enhance HMPV Testing Labs & Monitor Year-Round Trends

New Delhi: The Union Health Ministry announced that it is closely monitoring the spread of the Human Metapneumovirus (HMPV) in China, which has seen a rise in cases in recent weeks. In response, the Ministry confirmed that the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) will enhance the number of laboratories testing for HMPV and will continue to monitor the virus throughout the year. To discuss the ongoing situation, the Ministry convened a Joint Monitoring Group (JMG) meeting, chaired by Dr. Atul Goel, the Director General of Health Services. Dr. Goel reassured the public, stating there is no cause for alarm, and emphasized the importance of following general precautions.

The Joint Monitoring Group highlighted that respiratory viruses, including HMPV, are already circulating globally, with cases reported in India. The group also noted that a strong surveillance system for Influenza-like Illness (ILI) and Severe Acute Respiratory Illness (SARI) is already in place in India through both ICMR and the Integrated Disease Surveillance Programme (IDSP). Data from these networks shows no unusual surge in ILI or SARI cases. Additionally, the ICMR network conducts testing for various respiratory viruses, including adenovirus, Respiratory Syncytial Virus (RSV), and HMPV. According to the Ministry, the testing has not revealed any significant increase in these pathogens across the samples collected.

Audit Uncovers Lavish Spending at Kejriwal's Residence, Ignites 'Sheesh Mahal' Row

New Delhi: A recent audit of the official residence of former Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal has uncovered costly renovations, sparking controversy just ahead of the 2025 Delhi elections.

The audit found that Rs 96 lakh was spent on curtains, Rs 39 lakh on kitchen equipment, Rs 4.80 lakh on a minibar, and Rs 16.27 lakh on silk carpets.

These findings have led to the "Sheesh Mahal" controversy, named after the luxurious spending on the residence. Kejriwal left the property after stepping down as chief minister following his involvement in the liquor policy scam case.

Originally, renovation costs were estimated at Rs 7.91 crore in 2020, but the final amount rose to Rs 33.66 crore by 2022. The Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) report, led by Girish Chandra Murmu, also highlighted discrepancies, including Rs 14 lakh spent on floor tiles, which were initially priced at Rs 5.5 lakh, and a TV console costing Rs 20.34 lakh.

Other costly items included Rs 18.52 lakh for gym equipment and a treadmill, Rs 4.80 lakh for a dining table, and luxurious furniture, such as a Rs 6.40 lakh L-shaped sofa. Rs 18.88 crore of the total spending went towards "artistic and ornamental items." Additional expenses included a lift and sliding doors worth Rs 61 lakh, premium marble, and high-end bathtubs and showers.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi criticized Kejriwal during a Delhi event on January 3, saying that Kejriwal could have used the money for a "Sheesh Mahal" but chose to focus on public housing instead.

Kejriwal responded by defending his record, saying, "The talk of Sheesh Mahal does not behave a person who built a Rs 2,700-crore house for himself, travels in an Rs 8,400-crore plane, and wears a Rs 10-lakh suit."

Roads like Priyanka Gandhi's cheeks: BJP leader's sexist jibe, Congress hits back

Calling BJP an "antiwoman party," Congress said that the remarks made by Bidhuri are "shameful" and reflect his "ugly" mindset when it comes to women.

NEW DELHI. Ramesh Bidhuri, the BJP MLA candidate from Delhi's Kalkaji, on Sunday got embroiled in a controversy after he said that he will make the roads of the constituency as smooth as Priyanka Gandhi's cheeks if he wins his seat.

Calling BJP an "anti-woman party," Congress said that the remarks made by Bidhuri are "shameful" and reflect his "ugly" mindset when it comes to women. "This is BJP's real face," Congress spokesperson Supriya Shrinate said. Bidhuri's remarks also drew sharp criticism from the Aam

Admi Party with Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Singh tweeting, "This is BJP's candidate, listen to his language. This is BJP's respect for women. Is the respect of Delhi's women safe in the hands of such leaders?

peaking to India Today TV, Bidhuri confirmed that he had made these remarks. He further pointed out that Lalu Prasad Yadav once said that he would turn Bihar's roads as smooth as Hema Malini's cheeks. "If today they (Congress) feel pained by the statement, then what about Hema ji? She has Replying to Congress' 'sexist' charge, Bidhuri told India Today, "Isn't Hema Malini a woman? Hema Malini is far superior to Privanka Gandhi, when it comes to achievements in life."

Bidhuri is BJP's candidate for the upcoming Delhi Assembly elections, where he is pitted against Delhi Chief Minister Atishi and Congress' Alka Lamba in a three-way battle.

"Praying For Long Life": PM Modi Wishes Mamata "Didi" On Her 70th Birthday

Kolkata. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on Sunday, greeted West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on her 70th birthday.

- "On her birthday, I convey my greetings to West Bengal CM Mamata Didi. Praying for her long and healthy life," read a message from the Prime Minister posted on his X handle.
- A similar birthday wish was extended by Congress national president Mallikarjun Kharge, who chose to extend the greetings in Bengali considering that it is the mother tongue of Mamata Banerjee.

"Warm birthday wishes to the founding chairperson TMC, Mamata didi. Wishing you a long and healthy life," Mr Kharge's post read.For the last few years, the Prime Minister has not missed a single opportunity to wish Mamata Banerjee on this day. Almost every year, the Prime Minister wishes Mamata Banerjee on this day. According to official records, Ms Banerjee was born on January 5, 1955, which, however, is not her "actual" birth date. Ms Banerjee, in her 1995 memoir 'Ekante', has written about her birth, which took place during Durga Puja. The puja is usually held at the end of September or the beginning of October as per the Hindu calendar.

Mamata Banerjee became the Chief Minister of West Bengal in 2011 ending the 34-year Left Front rule and subsequently, her party won in two consecutive state Assembly elections first in 2016 and then in 2021.

She is the first woman Chief Minister of West Bengal. As the then-opposition leader in West Bengal, she had organised several protest movements against the then-Left Front government.

She was initially associated with Congress, but later broke off to form her party -- Trinamool Congress. However, in the 2009 Lok Sabha election and 2011 state Assembly elections,

Delhi police cancel CM Atishi's poll campaign event for not seeking 'prior permission'

An AAP spokesperson told TMS that the programme was halted on directions of BJP candidate from constituency Ramesh Bidhuri.

NEW DELHI. The Delhi Police on Saturday disallowed Chief Minister Atishi to hold a musical event in her constituency for allegedly not taking requisite permission from them. "Casual performance licence is required for any public performance or amusement function. They did not apply and took any permission from Licensing," police sources said.

They further said two hours prior to the function, the AAP gave intimation to police to put in a law and order arrangement without specifying the gathering details/traffic requirement. An AAP spokesperson told TMS that the programme was halted on directions of BJP candidate from constituency Ramesh Bidhuri.

Rijiju offers PM's chadar at Ajmer, Kharge sends one too

- New Delhi. Calling it a "message of India's unity and brotherhood", Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge on Saturday sent a 'chadar' on his and the party's behalf to Ajmer Dargah, where the six-day Urs of Sufi saint Khwaja Moinuddin Chishti began on January 2.
- Meanwhile, Union Minority Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju arrived in Ajmer and offered a ceremonial 'chadar' sent by Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the dargah. He also read out the Prime Minister's message calling on people from across religions to work together in harmony.Rijiju also launched a web portal of the dargah, the 'Garib Nawaz' app for pilgrims and an operations manual, which is a comprehensive guide designed to ensure the effective conduct of the Urs, with detailed protocols for crowd management, security,

PM launches key Delhi section of Namo

New Delhi. Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday inaugurated an additional 13-kilometre Delhi section of the Namo Bharat RRTS corridor between Sahibabad in Ghaziabad and New Ashok Nagar in Delhi. With this inauguration, the operational stretch of the Namo Bharat corridor has expanded to 55 km, with a total of 11 stations. The inauguration took place around 11 am when PM Modi boarded a Namo Bharat train from Sahibabad and travelled towards New Ashok

Passenger operations will commence from 5 pm Of the newly inaugurated 13 km section, six km is today and trains will be available at a frequency of underground and includes a prominent station on 15 minutes. The fare from New Ashok Nagar the corridor, Anand Vihar, a major transit hub, station to Meerut South is Rs 150 for a standard which comprises interchanges with the Blue and Pink Lines of the Delhi Metro, a railway station and a bus terminal. This marks the first time that Namo Bharat trains will operate on an underground section and will ply in Delhi.

The New Ashok Nagar RRTS station will also have an interchange with the Blue Line of the Delhi Metro.PM Modi inaugurated the 17 km priority section between Sahibabad and Duhai Depot on October 20 last year. Prior to the inauguration of the Delhi section, a 42-km stretch of the corridor between Sahibabad and Meerut South, featuring nine stations, was operational. With the commencement of operations on the new section, Delhi is now connected with Meerut. The new stretch will reduce travel time by one-third, enabling commuters to travel from New Ashok Nagar to Meerut South in just under 40 minutes.

Kharge, in a post in Hindi on X, referred to the country's "Ganga-Jamuni culture" and said his sending the 'chadar' was a "message... to the entire world that the roots of national unity and brotherhood in India are so deep that they cannot be shaken by a few people with distorted mindset.""The symbol of our country's Ganga-Jamuni culture, national unity, mutual brotherhood, love and affection, etiquette and hospitality is behind the offering of the 'chadar'," he wrote.

Recalling that 2025 was the centenary year of Mahatma Gandhi becoming the Congress president, he wrote: "We should always remember that the 'merchants of hatred' have snatched the Father of the Nation from us, but his ideas are alive and the Congress party is constantly fighting for this by keeping the concerns of the people at the forefront. Therefore, the message of peace and brotherhood should spread from Khwaja's shrine to the entire world.

How are Congress and BJP different? Rahul Gandhi responds

►In a conversation with IIT Madras students, Rahul Gandhi said the Congress believed in equitable distribution of resources and inclusive growth, while the BJP focused aggressively on growth.

New Delhi. Giving a differentiation between the Congress and the BJP, Congress MP Rahul Gandhi asserted that his party believed that the distribution of resources should be done more fairly, and growth should be wider and inclusive. In a freewheeling conversation with IIT Madras students on Saturday, Rahul Gandhi said the BJP was more aggressive on "triple-down" growth.

"They believe in what in economic terms is 'triple-down'. On the social front, we feel that the more harmonious society is, the less people are fighting, the better it is for the country," he said. "On the international relations front, there are probably some Asked on how higher education should be differences with regards to the way we relate to other countries, but they will be similar," the Congress leader added.

The Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha underlined that governments should spend more on ensuring quality education, which he said could not be achieved through privatisation and financial incentives.

promoted, Rahul Gandhi said a country should guarantee quality education to its people."I don't think that the best way to guarantee quality education to our people is to privatise everything. Frankly, when you bring some sort of financial incentive into the game, you don't actually give quality education," he told the IIT Madras students. 'I have said this many a times that the government institutions, yours being one of them. I argue for much more money being spent in education by governments," he said.

Rahul Gandhi said he had "serious problems" with the country's education system, saying it had a "very narrow, restrictive and a topdown" approach. "You might not agree with me. I think it is a very restrictive and a top-down system. It is very narrow. I don't think our education system allows the imagination of our children to thrive," he said. He strongly batted for innovation by children, saying it could only come if they started production and their skill was respected, and investment was made in it."One of the things that I want to push is moving more into the physical production space. To me, real innovation comes from that space. Put as much money you want in research and development, if you are not actually producing the thing, it will just be a budget," he said.

best institutions in our country are Recalling his 2022-23 Bharat Jodo Yatra, Rahul Gandhi said he spoke to thousands of children about their aspirations and they told him that they wanted to become a doctor, lawyer, engineer or an army soldier.

> 'It can't be that there are only five things to do in this country. But that's what our system is pushing," he said, noting that the country's education system measures success only if one becomes an engineer or a doctor, or join the IAS/IPS or get into the forces, "which is just one percent or two percent of our population and 90 percent of our population is never going to do this". The Congress leader said the education system should allow children to do what they want and allow them to experience, and do multiple things.

> "Our education system disregards many things, it undervalues many professions and overvalues these four or five professions. So those are the types of things that I would like to change," he further said.

Quiet confidence & lasting impact of MMS

THE passing of Manmohan Singh, India's Prime Minister from 2004 to 2014, has led to an unexpected eruption of nostalgia and appreciation. Singh's modesty and low-key style made it easy for many to overlook his achievements in boosting India's economic growth and elevating its global standing. His death, at 92, has thrown a spotlight on an impressive record. Singh will be remembered as one of the world's most important and most unlikely — political leaders.

first met him in the late 1980s in the East Delhi housing complex where my family lived at the time. Singh had finished his term as Governor of the Reserve Bank of India and was looking to buy a simple apartment in our locality. A friend of mine called to ask if he could bring Singh to see ours.

- Singh came and met us and chatted with my mother. But he never moved to the area because soon thereafter, he was appointed Secretary-General of the South Commission in Geneva; and, after that, in 1991, he became India's Finance Minister. In 2004, my mother called me, excitedly informing me that the soft-spoken, unassuming Singh had just become India's Prime Minister. In 2009, when I was Chair of the Economics Department at Cornell, Singh invited me — quite out of the blue to join his government as Chief Economic Adviser. I agreed, but only if he assured me regular, direct access to him. He said he would, and he did. I met with him about once a month and got to know him well during the nearly three years in his government.
- By that point, Singh had already laid the groundwork of India's economic liberalisation, with the most important reforms carried out between 1991 and 1993, when he was Finance Minister. The transformative effect was evident from the subsequent acceleration in India's economic growth.India's early investment in the sciences and engineering during this period nurtured talent not only in research and development but also in corporate leadership and policymaking.Singh's sharp intellect was guided by a sure moral compass. Former US President Barack Obama rightly described him as a person of "uncommon wisdom and decency."
- While the electorate often took this to be a sign of weakness, his modesty was rooted in selfconfidence. He felt no need to proclaim his talents from the rooftop. He was unruffled by criticism and saw no sense in attacking his critics.
- In 2005, when he visited Delhi's Jawaharlal Nehru University, well-known for left-wing activism, students with black flags turned out to protest. The university authorities were embarrassed and furious, and offered to take strong action against the students. Show-cause orders were sent to some students and the Delhi police also detained some.
- It was Singh who intervened on the students' behalf, arguing that they were exercising their "democratic rights."Later, in a speech at the university, he quoted the famous aphorism attributed to Voltaire: "Every member of a university community, if he or she wishes to aspire to be worthy of the university, must accept the truth of Voltaire's classic statement: 'I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.' That idea must be the cornerstone of a liberal institution."It was also a cornerstone of Singh's own political career. Because he took ethics seriously, he insisted on the highest standard of honesty. When, in 2010, inflation was raging, some bureaucrats suggested that it might be best not to hurt his political standing by releasing so much price data. But he put his foot down, insisting there should be no compromise on statistical transparency, even if it dented his poll numbers. This raises a puzzling question. In a world where political success seems to depend so

TB doesn't have an adult vaccine yet. Why not

What is urgently needed is a vaccine that is effective before and after TB exposure, and in all age groups.

Tuberculosis (TB) remains the leading infectious cause of death in the world, including India. According to the Global TB Report 2024, an estimated 10.8 million people fell ill with TB in 2023 and 1.25 million died. India accounted for 26 per cent of the world's cases and an equal percentage of global TB deaths in 2023 — the highest for any country.In 2015, 194 countries adopted the WHO End TB Strategy, committing themselves to end the disease by 2030 as part of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). India set 2025 as the target year for TB elimination —five years ahead of the global target of 2030. The End TB strategy aims to achieve the targets of 80 per cent reduction in TB incidence rate and 90 per cent reduction in the number of TB deaths vis a vis 2015.

Despite a very high level of political commitment and increased financial resources over the past few years, the progress in TB control has globally remained rather slow. With only a year to go, India, too, will surely miss its 2025 target of TB elimination. There are several possible reasons for this slow progress. Most important among them is the advent of the Covid-19 pandemic, which led to widespread disruptions in healthcare, including TB drug supplies and redirection of human resources to address the pandemic. This severely hampered active TB case detection, diagnosis and treatment, thereby reversing the gains made in the recent past. The global deaths due to TB in 2021 increased for the first time after experiencing a decline for many years. The treatment of TB takes six months. But adherence to regular intake of medicine over such a long duration often becomes challenging for many patients.Also, TB comes in different forms — latent infection (which may remain dormant for years), subclinical and clinical TB. Each of these forms requires different tests to diagnose. Many patients latently infected with TB are, in fact, unaware that they have the disease as they may not exhibit the TB symptoms.Drug resistance, too, is an alarming obstacle to TB prevention and cure, making the treatment harder, expensive and longer to complete. Treatment of multidrug-resistant TB (MDR-TB) is complicated and takes up to two years.Plus, interaction between TB and HIV is a challenge to public health as HIV infection can complicate the management of TB in many ways. HIV-associated

TB often presents as extra-pulmonary disease and sputum-negative. Thus, diagnosis by sputum Addressing the important and substantial problem of examination becomes difficult. The TB-HIV interaction increases the rate of drug resistance and enhances the risk of complications. These factors make the fight against TB more challenging.

The most critical issue, however, is the lack of an effective adult vaccine. It has for long been a critical hindrance in the fight against TB. The only licensed vaccine presently available is the Bacille Calmette Guerin (BCG) vaccine. It does prevent severe infection among children, but its efficacy against pulmonary TB in adults is limited.

As of January 2024, there were only 17 TB vaccine candidates listed in the active clinical trial pipeline. This is in stark contrast to the rapid and extensive The development of shorter and safer treatment development of vaccines seen during the Covid-19 pandemic, which took less than a year to develop and be used as an effective public health intervention. Thus, the target of TB elimination cannot be achieved without substantial technological breakthroughs and their wide application in government programmes. Top priorities for research and innovation include the development of rapid point-of-care tests for diagnosing TB. Among them are rapid molecular tests which are highly accurate and faster than traditional/conventional microbiological tests. These improved tests can be performed near the patient or in the community-based health centres. They provide quick results, thereby helping in timely treatment. These tests should detect TB and resistance simultaneously.

'missing' cases or the patients hidden in the community requires innovative approaches to reaching them with diagnosis and treatment. Such cases have the potential to infect others in the community.Besides active case-finding, populationbased mass screening to detect those suffering from TB must be actively explored. Screening should be targeted at high-risk groups, such as the elderly, prison inmates and those with HIV infection, to get a higher yield.Early detection of TB and swift initiation of treatment can greatly reduce the burden of the disease, risk of poor treatment outcome and adverse socio-economic consequences.

regimens for treating TB infection and TB disease, especially drug-resistant TB, is an important clinical research priority. India has recently approved a new shorter and more efficacious treatment regimen for MDR-TB. It can cure TB in six months as compared to the traditional methods, which take up to two years and have severe side effects.

New TB vaccines could accelerate disease elimination by breaking the cycle of its transmission, improving health equity and reducing the cost of treatment. What is urgently needed is a vaccine that is effective before and after TB exposure, and in all age groups. With many candidate vaccines presently in the pipeline, the possibility of a new vaccine in the near future looks brighter. This endeavour must be supported, encouraged and suitably financed.Greater emphasis needs to be placed on more effective infection prevention and control activities; stronger surveillance to detect new cases, especially those with drug-resistant TB; community engagement in case detection and compliance with treatment and nutrition; and, finally, greater programmatic outreach for vulnerable populations as part of the universal health coverage.

There is real hope that development and wider application of these tools and innovative mechanisms can accelerate TB elimination in developing countries like India, which carries the highest TB burden in the world.

> decimate the scam-tainted UPA a decade ago, with Prime Minister Narendra Modi emphasising his zero-tolerance approach with the slogan, "Na khaunga na khane dunga". However, the rot in Haryana shows that the initiative to cleanse the system remains a work in progress.

Speaking at a 'Good Governance Day' event last week, the Haryana Governor rightly stated that information technology was the most effective means of curbing corruption. THE efforts to save an Indian woman on death row in Yemen should make us rethink whether we ourselves ought to continue with the severest of punishments. Nimisha Priya, a nurse, has been found guilty of murder. She allegedly injected the victim (who was known to her) with sedatives while visiting him in jail. So far, attempts to prevent her execution have failed.One last attempt is being made, and that is to offer blood money to the family of the deceased and seek forgiveness. The blood money is said to be $40,000 (around Rs 34 lakh). A substantial sum, if not the entire amount, has been raised and deposited by the family with a lawyer. The financial part seems to have been taken care of, and only forgiveness is anxiously awaited. Our government is doing all it can to assist the family.We always say "let the law take its course", and so it is in the case of this woman. So why is the government extending a helping hand to avert her execution? Is it because the government believes she is not guilty or was not given a fair trial? Is it because she is an Indian and the government will do what it can to save the life of an Indian? Is it because the government feels the punishment is too harsh? Whatever be the reason, the government must be commended for rendering assistance.

This case should prompt the government to reflect on the need to have the death penalty on the statute books. After all, when we execute a person, we are taking the life of an Indian citizen. It hardly matters whether the Indian is executed in our country or on foreign soil. True, our courts are circumspect and they do so in the rarest of the rare cases. But would it not be proper for the prosecution to refrain from demanding the death penalty?

Death penalty merits a rethink

Yemen case should prompt India to reflect on this mode of punishment

What purpose is served by executing a person? The usual answer, when the death penalty is discussed, is that it is a deterrent against heinous crimes. Unfortunately, there is no evidence to support that argument. The US has a high number of persons on death row; it also executes a rather large number of them. Has this deterred individuals from committing murders or mass shootings in schools or most recently the carnage in New Orleans?

n the other hand, it appears that despite the abolition of the death penalty, cases of heinous crimes have not increased. France did it in 1981; over four decades later, there is no evidence that the count of heinous crimes has risen. Zimbabwe, which abstained from voting on the UN resolution for a moratorium on the death penalty in December last year, has now abolished capital punishment. Let's wait for the impact of this decision.

Tens of thousands of rape and murder cases are registered in our country every year. We also have several instances of terror attacks. I believe that in all these cases involving heinous crimes, justice will be served to a great extent if investigations are concluded expeditiously and the trial is completed within a year. For this, our police need to be highly trained to investigate crimes; our prosecuting authorities and prosecutors should also be fully equipped with solid and scientific evidence.

In a recent case reported by a newspaper, 48 out of 49 witnesses turned hostile. What does this tell us about our criminal justice system? Only that a massive overhaul is needed. But, instead of improving our system, there is a demand for the imposition of the severest possible punishment death sentence. That won't help us improve the system.

ourts across the country need to expedite trials and disposal of appeals in criminal cases so that a conclusion is reached quickly. Perpetrators of crimes, heinous or otherwise, will get the message that they will be hauled up sooner rather than later and will have to serve time in prison.Some courts have begun to take the view that sending a person to the gallows may not necessarily be the best solution. In the recent past, there have been cases in which courts have awarded 20-25 years' rigorous imprisonment to a convict instead of the death sentence. Sometimes, such long terms of incarceration are awarded without any provision for remission. There have been a few cases in which the convict was sentenced to imprisonment for the rest of his or her life. Is this as bad or as good as the death penalty? Many countries seem to think so. Don't forget that Abu Salem was extradited from Portugal on the condition that he would not be given the death penalty. There is no doubt that the abolition of the death penalty is a very controversial and tricky subject, particularly in cases of rape, murder, sexual abuse of children and terror attacks. Nevertheless, we need to discuss this subject threadbare and have some sort of a policy or consensus; otherwise, the death penalty may get reduced to a game of chance. Meanwhile, let's pray for the woman in Yemen.

नर्ड दिल्ली। पिछले 12 वर्षो में भारतीय परिवारों की खर्च प्राथमिकता में काफी बदलाव आया है। नतीजतन, ग्रामीण और शहरी दोनों क्षेत्रों में दालों और अनाज की खपत पांच फीसदी से अधिक घटी है। एसबीआई रिसर्च की रिपोर्ट बताती है कि लोग खाद्य के बजाय गैर-खाद्य पदार्थों पर ज्यादा खर्च कर रहे हैं।

रिपोर्ट में सामने आए रुझान दर्शाते हैं कि भारतीय परिवारों को पोषक खानपान के बजाय साफ-सफाई और खूबसूरत दिखने के सौंदर्य प्रसाधनों पर खर्च करना ज्यादा पसंद आ रहा है। कपड़ों, जूतों जैसी चीजों पर खर्च करने में भी कमी आई है। रिपोर्ट के मुताबिक, यह रुझान आर्थिक विकास और जीवनशैली में बदलाव के कारण प्राथमिकताओं में आए बदलाव को दर्शाता है। शहरों के मुकाबले गांव ज्यादा तेजी से बदले शहरी क्षेत्रों के मुकाबले

Gautam Gambhir reiterates importance of domestic cricket after Australia series loss

India head coach Gautam Gambhir has once again highlighted the importance of playing domestic cricket after India's series loss against Australia. Notably, India lost the fifth and final Test against Australia in Sydney by six wickets and lost the series by 1-3. It was their first series loss against Australia since 2015 and their second consecutive Test series loss following a recent 0-3 whitewash against New Zealand at home.

Following India's another dismal show in Tests, Gambhir highlighted the importance of playing domestic cricket for Indian of playing domestic cricket for indian players. The India head coach also pointed out that everyone who has the commitment to playing Test cricket should play domestic cricket as it helps one get the desired results in the longest format."I would always like everyone to play domestic cricket. Not only one game, if they're available and they have the commitment to play red-ball cricket, everyone should play domestic cricket. As simple as it can get, if you don't give importance to domestic cricket, you will never get desired results that you want in Test cricket," said Gambhir in the post-match press conference.

There have been widespread discussions about the compulsion of Indian players to play domestic cricket since 2024 as players like Hardik Pandya, Ishan Kishan and Shreyas Iyer have been reprimanded in the past for missing domestic games. Ahead of the ongoing Test season, players like Shubman Gill, KL Rahul, Sarfaraz Khan and Kuldeep Yadav amongst others, participated in Duleep Trophy but senior players Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma continued to be missing.India don't play Tests until July 2025 Their lack of preparation came out in the open as both batters had to endure poor form across 10 Tests played since September 2024. Rohit scored 164 runs from eight matches (15 innings) at an average of 10.93 while Kohli scored 382 runs (19 innings) from ten matches at an average of 22.47.

Meanwhile, with the next round of the Ranji Trophy 2024-25 beginning from January 23, it remains to be seen whether the senior players will return to play domestic cricket as the ICC Champions Trophy 2025 is also on the horizon. India don't play any more Test cricket till their tour to England in July. Hence, the senior players will have to find a way to regain their form if they are to elongate their Test career.

Sydney. Legendary Indian cricketer Sunil Gavaskar was not invited to present the Border-Gavaskar Trophy to the winners of the series. The India vs Australia Test series - named after the legendary duo of Sunil Gavaskar and Allan Border was won by Australia after a gruelling 5-match Test series. The presentation ceremony saw Allan Border get up on the stage and hand the trophy to Pat Cummins' team.An upset Gavaskar let his thoughts known after the conclusion of the series, alleging that he was not called to present the trophy because he was Indian. Gavaskar added that it would have been nice to hand over the trophy alongside his good friend Allan Border

I certainly would have loved to have been there for the presentation. After all, it is the Border-Gavaskar Trophy and it is about Australia and India," Gavaskar was quoted by Code Sports.I mean, I am here on the ground. To me, it should not matter that Australia won when it comes to the presentation. They played better cricket so they won. That's fine. Just because I am an Indian (I did not present the trophy). I would have been happy to present the trophy with my good friend Allan Border," he added.Gavaskar however mentioned himself that the organisers told him that he was not needed for the presentation if Australia won the series and took back the BGT. Gavaskar said that he was perplexed at the decision given the series was named after him and Border.

"I was told just before the Test started that was going to be the situation. If India didn't win or draw the series I wouldn't be required...I'm not feeling sad, but I'm just feeling a little perplexed. It's the Border-Gavaskar Trophy, both of us should have been there," Gavaskar concluded.

AUS vs IND: Gautam Gambhir slams Australia's Sam Konstas 'intimidation' remark

India coach Gautam Gambhir has slammed suggestions from the Australia camp that his side were trying to intimidate Sam Konstas

Sydney. Stand-in India captain Jasprit Bumrah updated on his injury after the conclusion of the final Test match of the Bborder-Gavaskar Trophy. Speaking at the post-match presentation ceremony, Bumrah rued missing out on the spiciest pitch of the series but said that he had to listen to his body and could not keep fighting it. The Indian fast bowler was the standout performer in the series, picking up 32 wickets at a ridiculous average of 13.02. Bumrah said that he felt some discomfort just after Lunch on Day 2 of the Sydney Test and had to stop bowling and get things checked. It was reported that Bumrah had a back spasm, and the pacer did not bowl a single ball since. "Little frustrating, sometimes you have to respect your body, you can't fight your body. So they're a little disappointing at the end that, you know, probably missed out on the spiciest wicket in the series, but yeah, that's the way it is. Sometimes you have to accept what it is and, you know, move forward," Jasprit Bumrah said after the conclusion of the series.AUS vs IND, 5th Test: Day 3 Highlights"There was a little bit of discomfort so I wanted to check it out after the first over of my second spell (Day 2)," he added.He was devastating at times, so it's no surprise to see Jasprit Bumrah named the NRMA Insurance Player of the Series. #AUSvIND pic.twitter.com/7qFlYcjD2d cricket.com.au (@cricketcomau) January 5, 2025In the absence of Jasprit Bumrah, India were rolled over by Australia on Day 3 of the Test match. Chasing 162 runs, the side came out with attacking intent and chased down the total in just 27 overs. With the loss in Sydney, India's decade-long domination of the Border-Gavaskar Trophy came to a grinding halt as Australia hammered the Jasprit Bumrah side. IND vs AUS, 5th Test: Match Report Bumrah spoke about the series and said that it was a well-fought one. The captain said that India would return home with a lot of learnings, that would help them in the future. "So the chat was about belief. We picked up wickets in the first innings as well with a bowler short. The chat was that we have to believe we are good enough and if we create enough pressure, we'll be able to do some damage," said Bumrah."Lots of ifs and buts. The whole series was well-fought. We were in the game today also. It was not totally onesided...I think yeah it was a well fought series. A lot of good learning for us and experience that our players have gained, who have come here for the first time...So I think these learnings will help us in the future," the India captain concluded.

- claimed that India can't always be dependent on Jasprit Bumrah to get them results after their Sydney Test loss on Sunday, January 5. Bumrah wasn't in action with the ball on Day 3 of the crucial match due to a back spasm that limited his overs to just 10 in the game across both innings.
- This meant that India went into defending the total of 162 without their main weapon in the ranks and Prasidh Krishna and Mohammed Siraj were forced to take up the main workload. Australia were able to nullify the threat from the Bumrah-less attack effectively and ended up winning the match by 6 wickets and claimed the Border-Gavaskar Trophy 3-1.Speaking at the postmatch press conference, Gambhir claimed that it wasn't due to Bumrah's absence the team was unable to get the win. The India coach said that they still had a good side and weren't able to get the result.

"First of all, I don't want to say that, since Jasprit Bumrah wasn't there, we couldn't get the result. We had our moments, and it would have been nice if he had been there. We still had 5 bowlers and a good team that shouldn't be dependent on one individual. We didn't get the result, as simple as it gets," said Gambhir.Bumrah ended up picking 32 wickets in the series at a stunning average of 13.06. Gambhir said it was an outstanding performance from the pacer and did everything possible from his side during the series. Gambhir also claimed that Bumrah got support from the other side from Mohammed Siraj and some of the young bowlers

New Delhi. India coach Gautam Gambhir has slammed Australia's remark that his side was trying to intimidate young opener Sam Konstas during the Sydney Test. Konstas, since making his debut in Melbourne, has been involved in a couple of run-ins with the visitors. The most heated moment came in Day 1 of the match at the SCG when he had an altercation with Jasprit Bumrah.Bumrah would then proceed to celebrate in front of Konstas after dismissing Usman Khawaja off the very next ball as the rest of his teammates joined in. Australia coach Andrew McDonald would comment on the matter after Day 2 and claimed that the Indian side were looking to intimidate the Australian players have done it in the past youngster, which Gambhir denied. During the post-match press conference, the India coach said it is a tough sport played by tough men, and they can't be soft.Gambhir claimed that Konstas had no right to be talking to Bumrah at the moment.

- "It's a tough sport played by tough men. You can't be that soft. As simple as it can get," said Gambhir.
- "I don't think there was anything intimidating "I don't think we need to make a big issue out about it. He had no right to be talking to Jasprit Bumrah when Usman Khawaja was taking time. He had no right.""He had no business to be involved with Jasprit Bumrah, that was a job for the umpire."

during the Sydney Test. Konstas was involved in a confrontation with Jasprit Bumrah during the match.

Gambhir would also brush aside the confrontation between Virat Kohli and Konstas in the Melbourne Test and claimed there was no need to make an issue out of it. The India coach said that the Aussie players have done the same in the past.

- "I think whatever has happened is history. Whatever happened happened. It is a tough sport played by tough men and these things happen," said Gambhir.
- of it.""It is not just incidents that have happened in this series. It has happened in the past as well. A lot of Australian players in the past have done it as well. We keep making a big deal out of these things."

NZ vs SL: Young, Henry star as New Zealand thump Sri Lanka in 1st ODI

Will Young and Matt Henry were the stars of the show as New Zealand thumped Sri Lanka by 9 wickets in the first ODI played in Wellington on Sunday, January 5. Sri Lanka were bundled out for 178 and Young's unbeaten 90 set up the chase perfectly for the hosts.

New Delhi New Zealand dominated Sri Lanka in a commanding nine-wicket victory at the Basin Reserve, with their fast bowlers dismantling Sri Lanka's top order before a clinical batting display sealed the chase. Will Young's unbeaten 90 off 86 balls capped a comprehensive performance on a chilly, wind-swept Wellington day.

On a green-tinged pitch, New Zealand's pacers exploited the conditions to devastating effect, reducing Sri Lanka to 23 for 4 inside the powerplay. Matt Henry led the charge with a sensational spell, finishing with 4 for 19 from 10 overs. He removed Pathum Nissanka with a full, seaming delivery that induced a leading edge, while conceding just six runs in his first five overs. At the other end, Jacob Duffy added to the carnage, unsettling Kusal Mendis with a sharp bouncer that the batter inside-edged onto his stumps. Kamindu Mendis compounded Sri Lanka's woes with a reckless run-out, as Mitchell Santner's pinpoint underarm throw hit the stumps.Captain Charith Asalanka fell for a duck after being undone by Nathan Smith's short-pitched delivery, confirmed on review to have brushed his bat. By the time Janith Liyanage joined Avishka Fernando, Sri Lanka was reeling, struggling to mount a recovery.Avishka Fernando led a valiant fightback, crafting an enterprising 50 while adding 87 for the fifth wicket with Liyanage. The pair capitalized on the reduced lateral movement, finding boundaries square of the wicket and handling the short ball effectively. However, Liyanage's dismissal for 36, mistiming a Santner delivery to deep midwicket, signaled the beginning of the end.Wanindu Hasaranga contributed a brisk 35, and Chamindu Wickramasinghe chipped in with 22, but New Zealand never relinquished control. Exceptional fielding, led by Mark Chapman's agility at point, compounded Sri Lanka's struggles as they were bowled out for 178 in the 44th over.

The target of 179 was made to look trivial by New Zealand's top three. Rachin Ravindra set the tone with a flurry of boundaries through the off-side during the powerplay, while Will Young punished anything short with authoritative pulls and hooks. The hosts raced to 70 without loss after 10 overs, capitalising on Sri Lanka's inconsistent lines.Ravindra departed for 39, trying to flick a leg-side delivery but falling to a simple catch. However, Young remained imperious, driving and pulling with confidence as he brought up his tenth ODI fifty. Mark Chapman supported him with a steady 32*, and the duo's unbroken partnership of 87 ensured a smooth finish.

New Zealand reached the target with 23.4 overs to spare, underscoring their dominance with both bat and ball.
